

Teachers Matter: Making the Most of Educator Effectiveness in Colorado An Independence Institute Brown Bag Lunch with Dr. Marcus Winters

In the past couple years, Colorado has made waves by moving forward with major educator effectiveness reforms. What does the body of research have to say about the process Colorado has undertaken? Are there additional reforms Colorado should look at embracing? What are the best policies and incentives we can pursue to ensure students all have the effective instruction they need?

Please join us at the Independence Institute Freedom Embassy (727 E 16th Avenue, Denver, CO 80203) on Thursday, April 12, to hear University of Colorado at Colorado Springs assistant professor and Manhattan Institute senior fellow Marcus A. Winters discuss the findings and recommendations from his new book Teachers Matter: Rethinking How Public Schools Identify, Reward, and Retain Great Educators. Winters argues that our nation's failure to identify and reward high-quality teachers has been devastating for public school students. More information on Teachers Matter is available on the Manhattan Institute website: <http://www.manhattan-institute.org/teachersmatter/>.

Doors open at 11:30 AM, with the presentation running promptly from noon to 1 PM. The event will be a Brown Bag Lunch, so you are welcome to bring your own food along with some thoughtful questions for our guest speaker. You may RSVP by sending an email to RSVP@i2i.org.

Limited free parking is available adjacent to the building and in the lot west of the building across the alleyway. Additional street parking and paid lots are available nearby. The meeting room is on the lower level of the building, with no access by elevator. We apologize for any inconvenience this may cause.
